Description - Tribal Self Assessment Tool “Demonstration Program”

RedWind is pleased to offer a comprehensive “Tribal Self Assessment Tool Demonstration” program to help Native communities identify and assess the unique tribal culture, vision, infrastructure, natural resources and human capital that can contribute to sustainable economic development.

The Small Business Administration (SBA) is sponsoring eight (8) regional training sessions. This is a no fee, three-day TSAT Workshop/ Training Session. Participants are responsible for only their own transportation, meals and lodging.

Who should take this course?

- Tribal leadership, department heads, community leaders and facilitators. Tribal leaders who want to develop local solutions and approaches using the TSAT. Seating is limited to two representatives per tribal entity.

What participants will gain:

This workshop will provide the skills, knowledge, and expertise necessary to help assess your economic development environment. Templates and tools will be provided that will enable participants to return to their organizations confident and excited about implementing new tools for economic development. This workshop is noted for its high impact nature in terms of knowledge retention and skill application. It is founded upon a proven, three-phase approach to learning:

- Phase 1: Workshop preparation (pre-reading of material regarding visual management)
- Phase 2: Workshop event (training event)
- Phase 3: Post-Workshop application (implementing visual management within their own organization)
